2 Taking shape

Break up a sleek architectural kitchen design with some textural interest. These ceramic three-dimensional tiles create an eye-catching feature and distract one's attention away from the bank of units.

Wow Nilo tiles in ceramic in ice white (H12.5xW12.5cm), £180 per sqm, Stone & Ceramic Warehouse (020 8993 5545; sacw.co.uk)

3 Perfect fit

Forget bulky base units – streamlined tailored cabinetry is the solution of the moment. This kitchen genuinely feels like part of the furniture with its matching skirting and solid oak splashback and detailing.

Waldemar kitchen in oak veneer and oak in Farrow & Ball's all white. Kitchens start from £35,000, Cue & Co of London (020 7731 4728; cueandco.com)

4 Devil's in the detail

Whether it's customising basic units in your new kitchen or updating existing ones, smart brassware is the latest way to create a stylish scheme.

Kitchen designed by Minale & Mann with units from Leicht in sand grey matt lacquer, £75,000 (020 3176 4499; minaleandmann.com); Brass handles, £33 each, Buster + Punch (020 7407 0888; busterandpunch.com)
